DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Claim 11 is withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in Paper No. 16.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4, 5, 7, 16, 17, 19 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Seebeck in view of Shimamura et al. (U.S. Pat. No. 6,265,000) ("Shimamura") and in further view of applicants' admissions for the reasons set forth in the last Office action

Response to Arguments

Applicants' arguments filed 07/28/03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive..

Applicant argues that the prior art teaches away from adding a "material used for the production of beer," i.e., the claimed "liquid adjunct." A review of the instant specification discloses that the phrase "liquid adjunct" refers to "but is not limited to" a fermentable sugar such as "fructose." See page 7 of specification. Further, the term "adjunct" is broadly defined as something that is added. A liquid adjunct would therefore be something that is added that is also a liquid. It is not seen that the instant claims are limited to cereal or malt based adjuncts. With regard to "a material that is used to make beer," Shimamura teaches that those in the brewing art would add fermenting grape juice to a wort. Lastly, there is nothing in the claims to limit them to the production of beer. Therefore, it is not seen that the prior "teaches away" from the use of fruit juices, as disclosed.
